

I believe Sinclair Broadcasting is using it's power in a way that is not in the best interest of the American public by airing a highly controversial and politically biased film on John Kerry.

Public airways should be used to inform and educate the public on issues, not as a vehicle of one political party. I encourage the FCC to review this material before broadcast to determine if it is indeed a fair attempt to educate the public or is in effect a political tool to sway the public to one party's thinking. We need an educated and informed public to make honest decision in matters as important as a presidential election. No one agenda should be promoted beyond another.
